

A CONTINUING MASONIC COMMUNITY CONVERSATION

Saturday, September 26, 2020

1:00 PM – 3:00 PM Pacific Time

*“If I love you, I have to make you conscious of the things you don’t see.”—
James Baldwin (artist)*

In August, we held an important, open conversation about racial injustice and inequity in society. This particular session will be focused on identifying solutions.

We will continue this discussion with an exploration of the difference between racism and prejudice and bigotry. We will then hold smaller group discussions where participants will have the opportunity to share their perspectives and needs.

You do not have to have attended the prior session to take part in this one.

We draw strength from those who dedicated their lives and sacrificed their bodies in the fight for equality. We lean on each other and our Masonic teachings, we rest when we need to, but we determine to never give up.

Join us on Saturday, September 26 from 1:00 PM to 2:45 PM Pacific time for this important guided community conversation to discuss racial inequity and our next steps. Participants will connect and openly discuss race and work toward overcoming obstacles that prevent sustained progress.

We look forward to continuing the journey together.
